Programme at a glance Friday 17 May 2019

	Programme at a glance Friday 17 May 2019
09.00-09.30	Registration and exhibition
09.30–10.30	Opening and Presidential lecture: Tony Badger – The Kennedys and the Gores – Charles and Edward Suite
10.30–11.00	Coffee
	Primary		Secondary						General
Session 1 11.00–12.00	Andrew Wrenn Taking the long view: helping children make links within the chronological study and across periods	Chris Trevor Curiouser and curiouser. How to engage children in exploring their local history	Jim Carroll Beyond 'so what!?' explanations: modelling academic causal arguments for students	Rose Crossgrove Taking the Normans from abstract to concrete	Hugh Richards Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by the new GCSE?	lan Dawson Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at Key Stage 3	Mary Brown Making people in the past meaningful and memorable Exec Directors	Eduqas, part of WJEC Wayne Newton Developing GCSE history skills – whichever board you use	Paula Kitching Visit: Walking tour of Chester	Trevor James Exploring the saintly landscape
	Roodee	Studio	Malpas	Cornwall	Edward	Rothesay	Boardroom	Christleton	Walking tour	Charles
12.00–12.15	Break	Dan Dallin and	David Province	Natalia Kesterter	Holon Coolsesses	Daine Bish	Dan Walek and	DEADCON		Time Cue de
Session 2 12.15–13.15	Helen Crawford EYFS: how to teach the past without teaching history	Ben Ballin and Alf Wilkinson The history of geography: three thousand years of maps	David Brown and Giuliana Pieri What does 'useful' even mean? Taking another look at A-level source questions	Natalie Kesterton Planning ways to strengthen pupils' understanding of chronology in a two- year Key Stage 3	Helen Snelson and Ruth Lingard The changing history of mental health – period knowledge at Key Stage 3 to support GCSE	Paige Richardson GCSE history for all: tackling superpower relations with lower- ability students	Ben Walsh and Jennifer McCullough Finding the 'next level' with sources in the history classroom	GCSE History: guidance on sources and interpretations Pearson		Tim Grady German Jews, the First World War and its devastating aftermath
	Rothesay	Roodee	Malpas	Studio	Christleton	Exec Directors Boardroom	Edward	Cornwall		Charles
13.15–14.00	Lunch, exhibition and fringe
	Lunch, exhibit	tion and fringe
14.00–14.30	_		eather Fearn – C	Charles and Edw	ard Suite				Branches mee	et and greet
	Bev Forrest and Rob Nixon Working towards quality: supporting you in success to the Quality Mark and Chartered Teacher status	/note: Ofsted: H Karin Doull Teaching creatively and teaching for creativity	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time	Will Bailey-Watson 'What did "revolution" mean in the Age of Revolution?': Exploring the fertility and fluidity of substantive concepts that just won't stay still	Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart of curriculum reform	Dani Hilliard Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake news Christleton	Andrew Payne and Ben Walsh Inside Versailles: understanding the greatest peace treaty of all time.	AQA Eoin MacGabhann AQA GCSE history: lessons learned from 2018 and looking forward to 2019 AQA Cornwall	Richard Foreman From pitch to publication Exec Directors	Elaine Chalus 'He asked me for my husband's vote repeatedly': gender, place and power in controverted 18th century elections
14.00–14.30 Session 3	Bev Forrest and Rob Nixon Working towards quality: supporting you in success to the Quality Mark and Chartered Teacher status Burton	/note: Ofsted: H Karin Doull Teaching creatively and teaching for	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use	Will Bailey-Watson 'What did "revolution" mean in the Age of Revolution?': Exploring the fertility and fluidity of substantive concepts	Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart	Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake	Ben Walsh Inside Versailles: understanding the greatest peace treaty	Eoin MacGabhann AQA GCSE history: lessons learned from 2018 and looking forward to 2019	Richard Foreman From pitch to publication	Elaine Chalus 'He asked me for my husband's vote repeatedly': gender, place and power in controverted 18th
14.00–14.30 Session 3 14.45–15.45	Bev Forrest and Rob Nixon Working towards quality: supporting you in success to the Quality Mark and Chartered Teacher status Burton Break Chris Trevor How to become a more effective subject leader for history	/note: Ofsted: H Karin Doull Teaching creatively and teaching for creativity Roodee Kate Argyle and Lois Gyves Relevant, real and inspiring: practical approaches to using your local heritage	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time Edward Christine Counsell Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3	Will Bailey-Watson 'What did "revolution" mean in the Age of Revolution?': Exploring the fertility and fluidity of substantive concepts that just won't stay still Studio Robin Whitburn and Sharon Aninakwa	Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart of curriculum reform Rothesay Richard McFahn Should I simply focus on exam questions to teach interpretations well at GCSE?	Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake news	Ben Walsh Inside Versailles: understanding the greatest peace treaty of all time. Malpas Sally Burnham 'It's the stories I miss.' Don't forget the power of stories with exam classes.	Eoin MacGabhann AQA GCSE history: lessons learned from 2018 and looking forward to 2019 AQA	Richard Foreman From pitch to publication Exec Directors Boardroom Laura Carter and Peter Mandler Secondary education and social change since 1945	Elaine Chalus 'He asked me for my husband's vote repeatedly': gender, place and power in controverted 18th century elections Charles Caroline Pudney Deva Victrix: life at the edge of the Roman Empire
14.00–14.30 Session 3 14.45–15.45 15.45–16.00 Session 4	Bev Forrest and Rob Nixon Working towards quality: supporting you in success to the Quality Mark and Chartered Teacher status Burton Break Chris Trevor How to become a more effective subject	/note: Ofsted: H Karin Doull Teaching creatively and teaching for creativity Roodee Kate Argyle and Lois Gyves Relevant, real and inspiring: practical approaches to using your local heritage Rothesay	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time Edward Christine Counsell Being ambitious with historical content at	Will Bailey-Watson 'What did "revolution" mean in the Age of Revolution?': Exploring the fertility and fluidity of substantive concepts that just won't stay still Studio Robin Whitburn and Sharon Aninakwa Independent enquiry and students' investigations at A-level	Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart of curriculum reform Rothesay Richard McFahn Should I simply focus on exam questions to teach interpretations	Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake news Christleton Rachel Foster and Tara Morton Not women's history, just history: re-imagining the place of the women's suffrage campaign in the curriculum Exec Directors	Ben Walsh Inside Versailles: understanding the greatest peace treaty of all time. Malpas Sally Burnham 'It's the stories I miss.' Don't forget the power of stories with	Eoin MacGabhann AQA GCSE history: lessons learned from 2018 and looking forward to 2019 AQA	Richard Foreman From pitch to publication Exec Directors Boardroom Laura Carter and Peter Mandler Secondary education and social change	Elaine Chalus 'He asked me for my husband's vote repeatedly': gender, place and power in controverted 18th century elections Charles Caroline Pudney Deva Victrix: life at the edge of the
14.00–14.30 Session 3 14.45–15.45 15.45–16.00 Session 4 16.00–17.00	Bev Forrest and Rob Nixon Working towards quality: supporting you in success to the Quality Mark and Chartered Teacher status Burton Break Chris Trevor How to become a more effective subject leader for history Christleton AGM — Roode	/note: Ofsted: H Karin Doull Teaching creatively and teaching for creativity Roodee Kate Argyle and Lois Gyves Relevant, real and inspiring: practical approaches to using your local heritage Rothesay	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time Edward Christine Counsell Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3 Edward	Will Bailey-Watson 'What did "revolution" mean in the Age of Revolution?': Exploring the fertility and fluidity of substantive concepts that just won't stay still Studio Robin Whitburn and Sharon Aninakwa Independent enquiry and students' investigations at A-level Cornwall	Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart of curriculum reform Rothesay Richard McFahn Should I simply focus on exam questions to teach interpretations well at GCSE?	Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake news Christleton Rachel Foster and Tara Morton Not women's history, just history: re-imagining the place of the women's suffrage campaign in the curriculum Exec Directors	Ben Walsh Inside Versailles: understanding the greatest peace treaty of all time. Malpas Sally Burnham 'It's the stories I miss.' Don't forget the power of stories with exam classes. Studio	Eoin MacGabhann AQA GCSE history: lessons learned from 2018 and looking forward to 2019 AQA Cornwall	Richard Foreman From pitch to publication Exec Directors Boardroom Laura Carter and Peter Mandler Secondary education and social change since 1945	Elaine Chalus 'He asked me for my husband's vote repeatedly': gender, place and power in controverted 18th century elections Charles Caroline Pudney Deva Victrix: life at the edge of the Roman Empire

Programme at a glance Saturday 18 May 2019

	Tograffifie at a glaffee Saturday 16 May 2019
09.00–09.30	Registration and exhibition
09.30–10.30	Keynote lecture: Fern Riddell – Uncomfortable histories: From sex to the suffragettes – Charles and Edward Suite
10.30–11.00	Coffee
	Primary		Secondary							General
Session 1 11.00–12.00	Ailsa Fidler Vicious vocabulary: exploring words in history teaching	Helen Crawford and Paul Bracey Is there more to World War II than evacuation and the Blitz?	Richard Kennett Back to the drawing board with Key Stage 3		Rachel Foster and Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and 'evidential thinking'	David Brown and Giuliana Pieri What does 'useful' even mean?: Taking another look at A-level source questions	Helen Snelson and Katharine Burn Women in war over time	Mel Jones Working towards quality	Michael Ohajuru The John Blanke Project: imagine the black Tudor trumpeter.	Peter Gaunt Regional capital or red herring? Chester's role in the English Civil War, 1642–46
	Roodee	Boardroom	Edward	Rothesay	Studio	Malpas	Christleton	Burton	Cornwall	Charles
12.00–12.15	Break
Session 2 12.15–13.15	Bev Forrest A fresh look at Florence: using our study of significant people to open doors to understanding people in the past Exec Directors	Sue Temple Using your Romans theme to develop literacy: going beyond the obvious	David Hibbert and Jason Todd Modelling the discipline: how can Yasmin Khan's use of evidence enable us to teach a more global World War II?	Ben Walsh and Jennifer McCullough Finding the 'next level' with sources in the history classroom	Steve Farndon Squaring the circle: matching the lessons of cognitive science with the challenges of history teaching	Mary Brown Making people in the past meaningful and memorable	Dani Hilliard Activated stereotyping: an alternative view to source analysis and the antidote to fake news	PEARSON A-level history: guidance on sources and interpretations Pearson	Caitlin Ellis Alfred versus the Viking Great Army	Jenni Hyde A history of the Reformation in five ballads
	Boardroom	Studio	Malpas	Edward	Roodee	Cornwall	Burton	Christleton	Charles	Rothesay
13.15–14.15	Lunch, exhibition and fringe
	Lunch, exhibit	ion and fringe
Session 3 14.15–15.15	Susan Townsend Up Pompeii! Strategies for teaching significant events at Key Stage 1	ion and fringe Stuart Tiffany History at greater depth	Carmel Bones and Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time	Rachel Foster and Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and 'evidential thinking'	lan Dawson Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at Key Stage 3	Hugh Richards Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by the new GCSE?	Christine Counsell Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3		Trevor James Visit: Chester's churches	Claire Hickman The doctor's garden
	Susan Townsend Up Pompeii! Strategies for teaching significant	Stuart Tiffany History at greater	Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use	Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and	Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at	Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by	Being ambitious with historical content at		Visit: Chester's
	Susan Townsend Up Pompeii! Strategies for teaching significant events at Key Stage 1	Stuart Tiffany History at greater depth	Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time	Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and 'evidential thinking'	Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at Key Stage 3	Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by the new GCSE?	Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3		Visit: Chester's churches	The doctor's garden
14.15–15.15	Susan Townsend Up Pompeii! Strategies for teaching significant events at Key Stage 1 Christleton Break Andrew Wrenn Taking the long view: helping children make links within the chronological study and across periods	Stuart Tiffany History at greater depth Rothesay Chris Trevor and Dave Trevor Surviving the Stone	Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time	Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and 'evidential thinking' Malpas Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's	Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at Key Stage 3 Cornwall Sally Burnham	Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by the new GCSE?	Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3	Katie Hall, Chelsey David and Will Bailey-Watson Refreshing the Age of Revolutions	Visit: Chester's churches	The doctor's garden
14.15–15.15 15.15–15.30 Session 4	Susan Townsend Up Pompeii! Strategies for teaching significant events at Key Stage 1 Christleton Break Andrew Wrenn Taking the long view: helping children make links within the chronological study	Stuart Tiffany History at greater depth Rothesay Chris Trevor and Dave Trevor Surviving the Stone	Anne Jackson History hacks – habits to make efficient use of Key Stage 4 time Studio Michael Riley and Ellie O'Keeffe Teaching about conflict, art and	Kath Goudie Putting it back together again: restoring the relationship between 'interpretations' and 'evidential thinking' Malpas Steve Mastin and Heather Fearn Celebrating history's distinctiveness: why teaching history should be at the heart	Creating a more positive interpretation of the Middle Ages at Key Stage 3 Cornwall Sally Burnham 'It's the stories I miss.' Don't forget the power of stories with	Sink or swim: how can we help students who are swamped by the new GCSE? Roodee Richard Kennett Back to the drawing board with Key	Being ambitious with historical content at Key Stage 3 Edward Jason Todd and Chris Lewis Bringing the untold stories of black Tudors	David and Will Bailey-Watson Refreshing the Age of	Visit: Chester's churches	The doctor's garden Charles Tara Morton Suffrage lives,	