

How far did the lives of the former slaves improve after Emancipation?

This task is assessing your ability to explain things clearly, using the evidence you have learned in class.

The task is testing 3 important skills in History

- Using your historical knowledge
  - TIP: Make sure you know some of the things that changed & things that actually made their lives worse
- Explaining the ideas of change & continuity
  - TIP: Make sure you can explain why these changes made their lives better or worse
- Writing in a clear way
  - TIP: Remember to write in paragraphs, have an introduction which introduces the topic and a conclusion where you make a judgement.
Use the PEE structure to help you structure your paragraphs.

Point	An example of something that changed for the better or worse
Evidence	Add more background detail to explain your point
Explain	Explain how this made their lives better or worse

Word Bank	Sentence starters
Change	The Emancipation of the slaves took place in .....
Emancipation	and meant that.....
Jim Crow Laws	One of the changes in the lives of the former slaves for the better was.....
Segregation	This improved their lives because.....
Ku Klux Klan	Another change for the better was.....because.....
Lynchings	Some things did not however improve the lives of the former slaves, for example, .....
Sharecropping	Another way in which their lives did not improve was....
	In conclusion, I believe that the lives of the former slaves did/did not improve because .....
	The most important change to their lives in a positive way was ..... because .....
	The worst change for the former slaves was ..... because.....

How far did the lives of the former slaves improve after Emancipation?

This task is assessing your ability to explain things clearly, using the evidence you have learned in class.

The task is testing 3 important skills in History

- Using your historical knowledge
  - TIP: Make sure you know some of the things that changed & things that actually made their lives worse
- Explaining the ideas of change & continuity
  - TIP: Make sure you can explain why these changes made their lives better or worse
- Writing in a clear way
  - TIP: Remember to write in paragraphs, have an introduction which introduces the topic and a conclusion where you make a judgement.
Use the PEE structure to help you structure your paragraphs.

Point	An example of something that changed for the better or worse
Evidence	Add more background detail to explain your point
Explain	Explain how this made their lives better or worse

Word Bank	Sentence starters
Change	The Emancipation of the slaves took place in .....
Emancipation	and meant that.....
Jim Crow Laws	One of the changes in the lives of the former slaves for the better was.....
Segregation	This improved their lives because.....
Ku Klux Klan	Another change for the better was.....because.....
Lynchings	Some things did not however improve the lives of the former slaves, for example, .....
Sharecropping	Another way in which their lives did not improve was....
	In conclusion, I believe that the lives of the former slaves did/did not improve because .....
	The most important change to their lives in a positive way was ..... because .....
	The worst change for the former slaves was ..... because.....

be white and protestant. They used violence and intimidation towards blacks and did not like it if ~~they~~ <sup>they</sup> began to earn good money. Their favourite way of violence was lynchings in front of public as entertainment, even kids would come to watch.

In conclusion, I believe the lives of the former slaves did not improve because everyone still considered them as 'lower citizens' and treated them with no respect. The most important change in their lives in a positive way was the chance of having an education and share-cropping. Although share-cropping still left slaves with big debts and little money, it also provided them with clothes and food.

The worst change for the former slaves was the ~~the~~ Jim Crow Laws. This was the main trigger for the practice of racial segregation. They were segregated in schools, restaurants, on public transport, hotels and housing.

Although everything turned out pretty negative, a main positive was that they were free! This meant they finally had the right to see family and live a better life, without being the property of someone else.

be white and protestant. They used violence and intimidation towards blacks and did not like it if ~~it~~ they began to earn good money. Their favourite way of violence was lynchings in front of public as entertainment, <sup>even kids would come to watch.</sup>

In conclusion, I believe the lives of the former slaves did not improve because everyone still considered them as 'lower citizens' and treated them with no respect. The most important change in their lives in a positive way was the chance of having an education and share-cropping. Although share-cropping still left slaves with big debts and little money, it also provided them with clothes and food.

The worst change for the former slaves was the ~~the~~ Jim Crow Laws. This was the main trigger for the practice of racial segregation. They were segregated in schools, restaurants, on public transport, hotels and housing.

Although everything turned out pretty negative, a main positive was that they were free! This meant they finally had the right to see family and live a better life, without being the property of someone else.

M*P*O

25/22/16

A positive change for the blacks was black communities and families. As a result of the slave trade they began to have churches and other public places where blacks tended to be together and have a small community of blacks and black families. This was positive because they had never had something like this before. as families could be split up under slavery

John Legend "Glory" lyrics

Oh, glory, glory

Oh, glory, glory glory

When the war is done, when it's all said and done

We'll cry glory, oh glory

← Old

This task is assessing your ability to explain things clearly, using the evidence

How much did England change under Norman rule?

you have learned in class.

The task is testing 3 important skills in History

- Using your historical knowledge
  - TIP: Make sure you know some of the things that changed & things that stayed the same

- Explaining the ideas of change & continuity
  - TIP: Make sure you can give examples of things that changed under Norman rule but also things that stayed the same

- Writing in a clear way
  - TIP: Remember to write in paragraphs, have an introduction which introduces the topic and a conclusion where you make a judgement.

Use the PEE structure to help you structure your paragraphs.

An example of a thing that changed or stayed the same	Point
Add more background detail to explain your change or continuity	Evidence
Explain how important this change was or continuity	Explain

Sentence starters	Word Bank
Change is when.....	Change
Continuity is when.....	Continuity
I am going to consider how much ..... there was in Norman England	Castles
I am going to consider how much ..... there was in Norman England	Motte & Bailey
One major change was.....	Cathedrals
One major change was.....	Control
This change was important because.....	Feudal System
Another major change was.....	Language
One thing that stayed the same was.....	Barons
The most important/significant change was..... This was because.....	Domesday Book
The most important thing that stayed the same was..... because.....
The group that was most affected by the changes was..... because.....
..... because.....

Monday 21st
November 2016

How much did England change under Norman rule

I am going to consider how much change and continuity there was in England when the Normans took control of England. Change is where something is altered or adjusted. Continuity is where something stays the same or is not changed.

<sup>under Norman rule</sup> One of the biggest changes is the building of Norman castles. Motte & Bailey castles where built for the Barons, they where built on top of a hill and watched over villages. One of the reasons these castles where built is to keep control of England as they looked very intimidating and it was unlikely to be attacked. Another difference is the barons normally lived in the village with the peasants, but they now lived in big castles.

Another major change was the introduction of the feudal system. This change was for William the Conqueror to know how much <sup>he could</sup> tax people. The feudal system was written in the Domesday books. All over the country everybody had to record how many sheep, chicken, pigs, cows and thing like that, they had.

Don't forget feudal system and Domesday

Another Change I am going to consider is the building of the cathedrals all over England. This is both change and a bit continuity. The change is the churches were now cathedrals, but the continuity is that they still worshiped the same god and used the same religion. ✓ ~~Boop~~.

One thing that stayed the same is the transport. They still used horse and carriage and walked on foot. ✓

*

I think that England was changed a lot by Norman rule as William the conqueror destroyed people homes and change the way England was ruled. (But we will never know if he didn't rule England how different or the same England would be then and today.)

* Another continuity is the houses and villages people lived in. Although how they lived had changed a lot, most of the houses and farms people lived in and worked on were the same.

In England I think the most important things William the conqueror changed in England was the way England was ruled. Almost everything William changed was to gain and keep control. These changes were castles, feudal system, and the Domesday books. Most of the continuity was the everyday life as their job was still farming. The way they farmed their land and their transport was still horse and foot. Excellent conclusion now!

CHANGE AND CONTINUITY – How much did England change under Norman rule?

KNOWLEDGE	LEVEL REACHED	CHANGE & CONTINUITY	LEVEL REACHED
Original and independently researched evidence		Considers the extent and the pace of the changes that happened
Wide ranging and carefully chosen evidence		Discusses which was the most important change and why
Carefully selected and precise range of evidence	✓	Describes in detail examples of both change and continuity	✓
Relevant and appropriately selected evidence which may lack depth		Shows and awareness that as well as change, some things stayed the same	✓
Limited relevant factual material		Describes in detail the different changes that took place	✓
A little accurate and relevant material		Recalls several of the changes that took place	✓

TEACHER COMMENT:

What Went Well

Good understanding of examples of change and continuity

Even Better If

You developed your judgement in the conclusion.

MAD: Make A Difference using another colour pen, correct your work as instructed below

Please add to your conclusion by including a section on what areas saw most change and what areas stayed the same. (Think about control and EVERYDAY LIFE).