

The director wants us to think that Boudicca was a brave courageous lady who stood out from many of other leaders and is determined.

He does this by making her look scruffy and in fur rather than armor so she stands out and although she is brave she still gets a bit scared like in the picture. In the clips of the movie she is really angry and ready and brave because she is shouting at her tribe and encouraging them. The director has captured the Boudicca when she is in a prison but also scared and she looks like she is really pushing herself to win and making herself determined.

The director also wants us to think that Boudicca is as good as a male and is an equal nevertheless she still wears her jewellery to make her the warrior queen.

What Does The Director want us to think About Boudicca?

The director wants us to think that Boudicca was a queen who liked to be in battle rather than on a throne. He does this by the costume design, her appearance ^{and the setting.} ~~and~~ ^{Moreover} he wants us to think she is wealthy, rich, ^{and the} generous and adventurous.

The choice, jewellery and clothes show the above points.
The director wants to show that women are just as powerful as men.
