

The National Truth

Reformer takes on Brussels

After his landslide victory in the Chelmsford election, Busterbank decided to tackle “the growing cancer eating away at this great nation’s heart”.

Danger

“Britain needs to be preserved, kept strong and pure and ready to face the challenges of the third millenium”
Busterbank said to reporters last night.

New plans

In a quite surprising step, Busterbank has spoken of the need to preserve our nation from the threat of attack by force or word.

Changes

Busterbank said that any nation showing aggression to our Home will be met by equal or greater aggression.

The National Truth

Minister appointed for new Culture position

Last night labour leaders were celebrating the arrival of a charismatic new minister to take over this new position, Mr William Busterbank.

Opinions on this ‘British Bulldog’ suggest that he will be a strong supporter for both truth and honesty.

Action

Almost immediately, Busterbank began making important decisions about the future of this Island Kingdom.

Great

News leaked out from Downing Street suggesting that Busterbank will put the ‘Great’ back into Great Britain.